

Tyco Fire Protection Products is pleased to announce that its ZETTLER fire alarm control panel range, PROFILE, has won an award at the Fire and Security Days Exhibition in Prague.

The FS Days Awards recognises companies who have successfully launched new, innovative products into the market. Each year, top-class products and technologies in the field of fire and security are unveiled at the show and this is a way to recognise exceptional products. Up to three main awards and several special awards are given to the best competitors.

The award was presented following a detailed application and a live demonstration of the panels key features at the event, which took place from 20th – 24th September at the PVA Expo arena, Prague.

With a full detection system set up inside the ZETTLER Roadshow truck, Ivan Melichar, Technical Sales Support for Tyco Fire Protection Products, was able to give the panel of judges visiting a comprehensive live demonstration of the detection system.

The demonstration highlighted how easy and intuitive the panel is to use. The features shown included using RFID tag to log into the panel showing no passwords are needed, the intuitive touchscreen Guided User Interface (GUI) and Tyco Expert Graphics (TXG) package, showing the panel's true capabilities.

The judges were clearly impressed as later that day the PROFILE panel was awarded the FS Days Award.

About the Show

Prague Fire & Security Days is an annual meeting of manufacturers and distributors showcasing the latest trends in fire-fighting and safety systems, high-tech technologies and security systems, private security agencies and government security forces, non-commercial subjects, non-profit organizations and associations with public.