

Where is the ZETTLER PROFILE Panel Made ?

Completing its Eastern European tour, the Zettler Roadshow Truck recently visited Tyco's state-of-the-art manufacturing facility in Rajecko, the Czech Republic, the birth place of the PROFILE panel.

PROFILE, the latest fire detection technology from Zettler, is a powerful fire detection and alarm system that uses MZX Technology. PROFILE is highly resilient to external factors such as electrical noise and sources of false alarm, whilst its ergonomic touchscreen makes it suitable for the most sensitive environments.

At the factory engineers involved in manufacturing the panels were invited on board the truck to see PROFILE in action and participate in live product demonstrations. They were shown an example of a real installation of Zettler's products through the new virtual reality feature using an app on the ipads in the truck. The app allows the user to virtually explore a hotel installed with the latest Zettler products.

A VIP customer day was also held at the facility in Rajecko, giving Zettler's key customers the opportunity to see how PROFILE is engineered with a tour of the factory. They also learnt more about the latest developments in the Zettler range, including the recent availability of the Meridian Gas Detector from Scott Safety.

Whilst in the region, the Zettler Truck also visited the Tomas Bata University, a technology school in Blansko. Here engineering students, aspiring to be the next generation of industry experts, were invited on to the truck to see the innovations from Zettler's top of the range technology and latest products, including 3oTec Triple Sensor Detector, Tyco Expert Graphics and Remote Service.

Tomas Ressel, Area Manager at Tyco Fire Protection Products, commented "With the truck in Rajecko we had the perfect opportunity to invite key customers to see the expertise that goes into our products. Educating students on the solutions available with a Zettler fire system was also a major highlight for me."
